Any physician will tell you that fish, in hot weather, is more healthful than meat, provided you get nice, fresh fish. Would you expect to find fresh fish at a meat market or little fish market where they do not receive goods oftener than once a week? Or would you go to headquarters, where they receive goods on nearly every train and boat? This is worth considering if you value your health.

Listen to the words of a noted physician, Dr. Albert Harris Hoy, of Chicago, as printed in the New York Journal, July 11: "Fish may be called diluted meat. It is the only animal whose flesh has always the tenderness of youth. It is strongly recommended for persons of sedentary occupation or weak digestion." Come where you are sure of getting fresh fish.

DR. ANDREWS RESIGNS.

The Result of Lively Controversy Over His Teachings.

The Advocacy of the President of Brown University of Free Silver

And Free Trade Caused the Corporation to Take Action on Matter.

Providence, R. I., July 22. Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews has resigned the presidency of Brown University and also his professorship therein.

The controversy which led up to the resignation was precipitated by Congressman Walker, of Massachusetts, at the last meeting of the Brown corporation.

The Congressman at that time deplored the action by President Andrews in promulgating his views on the silver question.

Mr. Walker's stand was approved by all the members of the corporation and a committee was appointed to confer with Dr. Andrews and endeavor to induce him to refrain from pursuing the policy he had adopted in relation to financial teachings, and the president's resignation was the result.

IN PERFECT ACCORD

Was Secretary Sherman with the President in the Seal Controversy.

Washington, July 22. The attention of Secretary Sherman was directed to the published statement that he had been induced to sign the letter of instructions to Ambassador Hay relative to the seal controversy, which has so excited the British press, only under severe pressure and against his own judgment.

He said that there was not a word of truth in it and that as a matter of fact he had been in perfect accord with the President in every step of the correspondence relating to the seal question.

FAIRFIELD LOG JAM OPENED.

Loss of $40,000 to Lumbering Firms and $2,000 on Booms.

Waterville, Me., July 22. The jam of logs at Fairfield bridge was well opened up today. A rough estimate of the loss to the lumbering firms was made by a prominent mill owner tonight, who places the figure at $40,000, divided between Lawrence & Newhall, Shawmut; Edward Ware, of Waterville; Somerset Fibre Co., of Fairfield; Kennebec Log Driving Co., N. Tolman & Son and L. W. Weston, of Skowhegan. Two thousand dollars will replace the booms.

Some five millions of logs have gone down river upon which a fifty per cent. loss will result.

Death of Mother of ex-Gov. Connor.

Waterville, Me., July 22. Mary Bryant Connor, aged 87, died at her home in Fairfield Thursday morning at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Connor was the mother of ex-Governor Selden Connor, U. S. pension agent at Augusta. In 1834 she married William Connor, a wealthy and prominent lumberman of Maine. To them were born six children, all living today, being Mrs. William Brooks, of Haverhill, Mass.; Selden Connor, Virgil R. Connor and Misses Linda, Lizzie and Lucia Connor, of Fairfield. Mrs. Connor had been ill for some months, though the end was very unexpected.

Bill for Monetary Commission.

Washington, July 22. Representative C. W. Stone, of Pennsylvania, who was chairman of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures of the last House, today introduced in the House a bill to authorize the appointment of a monetary commission and to provide for its expenses. The commission is to consist of eleven members and is to report not later than November 15, 1897.

One hundred thousand dollars are appropriated by the terms of the bill for the expenses of the commission. This bill has been prepared by Mr. Stone after consultation with Mr. H. E. Hanna, chairman of the Indianapolis sound money convention and is understood to have the approval of the administration. It is the bill that probably will be passed by the House as a response to the special message of the President which he will send to Congress as soon as the tariff bill gets out of the Senate.

Strike in Lynn.

Lynn, July 22. The 31 cutters employed at Harney Brothers' shoe shop struck this noon because of a recent reduction in the cutting price. The firm, taking advantage of the dull season and business depression, made a reduction in the cutting price that ranges from 10 to 15 per cent. The cutters there are members of the cutters' union of the Knights of Labor.

Several conferences between the firm and the cutters' agent were without result. Harney Bros. declaring that they would stand by the price posted last Monday. Today in accord with a vote of the union Wednesday night the cutters struck. All but one man came out. He is one of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union forces.

FOULLY MURDERED.

Aged Farmer Assassinated by Two Masked Burglars.

Broke In a Door and Shot the Old Man and His Sister.

Latter Was Seriously Wounded--Only About $200 Secured.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 22. Marcus G. Nichols, an aged and wealthy farmer residing on Daniels farm, in the town of Trumbull, was foully murdered by two masked burglars at his residence early this morning. His sister Mary, who lived with him, was seriously, perhaps fatally, shot, and the murderers and thieves abandoned the scene after ransacking the house and securing money thought to be about $200 in amount.

The scene of the double crime is a tiny settlement situated in the town of Trumbull on the Monroe turnpike and about nine miles north of this city.

In a lonely house dwelt Marcus G. Nichols, who was 64 years of age, and his maiden sister Mary Nichols, aged 58 years. The old man had always borne the reputation of being wealthy and was reputed to have concealed about the premises considerable money, stocks and bonds. He was thought to be worth $100,000.

The brother and sister slept in rooms on the second floor of the house. Their nearest neighbors live five hundred feet distant. At about 1 o'clock this morning, Mr. Nichols was awakened by a suspicious noise.

Miss Nichols was also startled and the two arose and lighted lamps, proceeded to the lower floor and waited. All of a sudden the side door was burst open and two masked men entered the room. As soon as they discovered the presence of Mr. Nichols and his sister they whipped out revolvers and one of the men fired at Nichols, the other at his sister. The aged man fell forward with a bullet in his breast, just over the heart. His sister sank to the floor with a ball in her side.

One of the burglars stepped forward, according to Miss Nichols, who had not lost consciousness, and lifting the unconscious body of her brother to a chair, placed in his mouth some liquor in which he placed some sort of a powder. A few seconds later the old man slipped off the chair, fell on his knees, dropped forward and died.

The burglars then removed Miss Nichols to the kitchen and began to search the house. Miss Nichols, left alone, debated as to the best plan of action. Wounded though she was, she decided to undertake to reach the neighbors and had started for the door when one of the men heard her. He summoned his companion and, covering the woman with their revolvers, the spokesman announced their intention of killing her if she attempted to leave the house.

They also demanded that she disclose the whereabouts of her money and that of her brother. She told them of the hiding place of her funds and also disclosed the spot where some of her brother's money would be found. The burglars continued the search and succeeded in finding about $200 in cash. They left strewn all over the house certificates of stock, bonds and other papers valued at about $75,000.

Some time after they left, Miss Nichols gave the alarm. Dr. Hill, of Trumbull, was summoned and he found the woman to be seriously wounded. The injury, however, will not necessarily prove fatal. There is absolutely no clue to the burglars further than an inadequate description such as Miss Nichols can furnish.

Augusta, Me., July 22. At a conference held in Boston, Wednesday, of the insurance commissioners of the several departments of Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island and Missouri after the recent examination of the Bay State Beneficiary Association of Westfield, Mass., the list of assets and liabilities of the company were reported as follows, the same to be embodied in a full report to be made by the commissioners in a few days:

The mortuary element of "one assessment," or the amount of one bi-monthly call at the present time, amounts to about $100,000. The amount now deposited with the Massachusetts State Treasurer in compliance with the provisions of the law amounts to $118,123.87.

The public is awaiting with a great deal of anxiety to see what action the commissioners will take in regard to the company.

The matter is of great interest to the people in this State. There were 1,321 policy holders in the company in Maine, December 31, 1895, with insurance amounting to $3,806.00. The company collected in Maine in 1896, $67,076.91.

The company at the present time is not authorized to do business in Maine, not having applied for a renewal of its license, which expired June 30.

The Bay State Beneficiary has been doing business under the laws of the State of Maine, which were passed in 1889. It will be remembered it absorbed the Provident Aid and the Maine Mutual Companies of this state. The latter company was the one which was made up, in October, 1895, of the Kennebec Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Waterville, the Orient Mutual Life Insurance Co., of York, and the York Mutual Aid Association, of Biddeford.

THE REEDITES.

They Block Progress on Tariff Bill In The Senate.

Attempt to Fix a Date for Vote on Conference Report Falls.

Opposition Indulges In Same Old Trashy Talk as Before.

New Senator From Tennessee Took Oath of Office on Thursday.

Washington July 22. The credentials of the new Senator from Tennessee, Thos. B. Turley, who succeeds the late Senator Harris, were presented to the Senate today by his associate, Mr. Bate. Mr. Turley was then escorted to the Vice-President's desk, where the oath of office was duly administered.

Mr. Tillman offered a resolution discharging the Committee on Contingent Expenses from further consideration of his resolution for an investigation of alleged Senatorial sugar speculation.

Before anything could be said Mr. Jones, of Nevada, presented a report from the committee on the same resolution.

Mr. Tillman was quickly on his feet asking that the report be read. He did not want it sidetracked by any parliamentary device and he wished to secure a direct vote on the resolution.

Mr. Gallinger (N. H.), a member of the committee, suggested that the resolution would go to the calendar and be reached in its proper order.

Mr. Tillman insisted on having it read.

Mr. Gallinger objected, the presiding officer holding that a single objection was sufficient to prevent the reading.

Then Mr. Tillman moved that the report be read and on a viva voce vote the motion was lost and the resolution went to the calendar.

Mr. Allison asked that the tariff conference report be taken up, but was met with several measures which Senators desired to hurry through in anticipation of the adjournment of Congress. Mr. Allison would not yield and Mr. Allen finally made an issue by moving to take up the bill for a non-partisan commission to inquire into questions affecting agriculture and labor.

The motion was lost and without further delay the consideration of the tariff report proceeded.

Mr. Chilton, of Texas, took the floor for a speech against the bill as a whole with an analytical criticism of the schedules in detail. Concerning the sugar schedule he said it was so cunningly devised as to make it difficult to determine the benefits conferred. The main point was the loss suffered by the people and after a calculation Mr. Chilton concluded that the sugar trust would be enabled by the bill to charge the people one cent per pound more for sugar than under the present law. He said the agricultural schedule ought to be known as the "fraud schedule" as it was designed to be deceptive to the farmer.

In connection with Mr. Chilton's discussion of the agricultural schedule Mr. Tillman was drawn into a vehement argument on the benefit of an export bounty on agricultural products.

The South Carolina Senator declared that the imposition of such a bounty was the most effective means of destroying the entire protective system, for if the farmer got one drop of "blood" in his mouth he would want to "swallow the whole carcass" and it would end in a scramble, overturning the whole system.

Proceeding, Mr. Chilton took up the Democratic position of free raw material, urging that the raw wool and other raw products were entitled to exactly the same consideration as manufactured woolen goods, but neither of them should be benefited as against the interests of the whole people.

Mr. Jones (Arkansas) followed in criticism of the bill in detail. The Senator referred to the full meeting of the conferees, Democrats and Republicans, and related the futile efforts of the Democratic conferees to secure a hearing.

Mr. Jones asserted that it was the first time in the history of the country that such arbitrary action had been taken by a conference committee.

"Vote it down," suggested Mr. Allison, "the report is a mere recommendation to the Senate."

"Yes," declared Mr. Jones, "the Senate owes it to its dignity to reject the report."

Mr. Aldrich, one of the Republican conferees, interrupted to state that the course of the conference committee was the same that every conference committee followed.

In the tariff contest of 1894, the Democratic conferees were together six weeks and the Republican conferees were not invited in and knew nothing of what was going on. Mr. Aldrich declared that the Republican Senators were responsible for the pending bill and it was not to be expected that amendments by the Democratic conferees would be engrafted on the bill.

Mr. Jones insisted that the course of the Republican conferees had been exceptional and arbitrary. In particular he urged that each change in the rates on sugar had given added benefits to the trust.

At one stage Mr. Aldrich interrupted to say that the average of rates was below that of the law of 1890. Referring to Mr. Jones' criticisms on the sugar schedule he said that his personal views were favorable to free sugar as they had always been and he would so vote if there was opportunity, but the demand for revenue made that impossible.

Mr. Pettigrew (S. D.) announced his purpose to vote against the conference report although he expected that the bill in its present form with all its iniquities would become law. Its iniquities would make it difficult to repeal, as the favors it gave brought it such tremendous strength that the Republican party would be able to collect a fund of twenty, forty or fifty millions, if they needed it, in order to carry an election. He believed, however, that the contest of the future was not on the tariff but between republican institutions and plutocracy.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Mr. Teller was about to begin a speech. He yielded, however, to Mr. Allison, who made the first movement toward bringing the debate to a close.

"I appeal to Senators to agree upon some satisfactory date tomorrow when the vote on the conference report may be taken," suggested Mr. Allison.

"That cannot be done," immediately interposed Mr. Morgan, while Mr. Allen added: "Oh, no."

Mr. Harris (Kan.) reminded Mr. Allison that a resolution in relation to the Union Pacific railway was awaiting consideration and he desired a vote on it before a quorum disappeared.

Mr. Allison responded that all measures could be expedited by first disposing of the tariff report. Then he added: "I ask unanimous consent that at 5 o'clock tomorrow a vote may be taken on the conference report."

"I cannot consent to that," said Mr. Pettus (Ala).

"I then ask," pursued Mr. Allison, "that the vote be taken before the Senate adjourns to-morrow."

"I object," interposed Mr. Morgan.

"Then I ask that the vote be taken at one o'clock on Saturday," proposed Mr. Allison, one proposition following the other quickly.

"I object to that," said Mr. Morgan, quietly but firmly.

"Does the Senator object to fixing any time whatever?" asked Mr. Allison, addressing Mr. Morgan.

"I do," answered Mr. Morgan. "I think the debate on this report will be exhausted to-morrow and I am not going to agree to any time for a vote now."

"I regret that no arrangement can be made to suit the Senator," said Mr. Allison. "It is very important that early action should be taken and I ask that the Senate meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow."

"I do not think this matter should be hurried, and I object," interposed Mr. Pettus.

Then Mr. Allison said: "I give notice that this is the last day while this conference is pending that we will adjourn at 5 o'clock without yea and nay vote."

Mr. Allison's notice that the session tomorrow would be protracted with a view to securing a vote was the first definite movement made thus far toward bringing the debate to a close.

The conference report was then laid aside for the day. The House joint resolution was passed requesting the President to make investigation as to the exclusion of American tobacco from foreign countries under the "regie" contract system.

At 5 the Senate held an executive session and then adjourned.

The House.

When the House met today Mr. Dalzell (Rep., Pa.) presented from the Committee on Ways and Means a bill to authorize the President to suspend in part or in whole the discriminating duties imposed on the vessels of foreign countries which grant similar exemptions to our vessels.

He explained that the existing Mexican laws imposed discriminating duties on vessels carrying lumber and general cargo but exempted those carrying coal. As the President has no authority to suspend duties on vessels carrying coal from Cardiff, Wales, now monopolized the coal trade of Mexico, which properly belongs to the coal mines of Alabama, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. This bill was designed to allow a partial suspension of duties.

The bill was passed.

Mr. Lacey (Rep. Ia.) secured unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill to amend the act creating a civil government in Alaska. It was identical with the bill passed by the House at the last session, creating a surveyor general and a register and receiver of the general land office. It, however, contained an additional feature empowering the President to create an additional land district. Mr. Lacey explained that the Yukon valley gold discoveries rendered an additional land office imperative. In answer to a question he said the gold fields lay in both the United States and British North America. The Klondyke region was in Canada. The bill was passed.

The House then, on motion of Mr. Dingley, took a recess until tomorrow.

A TOUGH LYNCHED.

His Existence Ended on General Principles.

Louisville, Ky., July 22. A special from Madisonville, Ky., to the Evening Post says:

The body of Ephriam Brinkley, who lives several miles from this city, was found dangling from a limb near his house, this morning. He had been lynched during the early part of the morning by a mob of about 40 citizens, who determined to put an end to his existence on general principles.

Several weeks ago Thomas Croullias, a well-to-do citizen of the neighborhood, was assassinated.

Brinkley was suspected on account of his evil reputation, but no evidence could be found to connect him with the crime. It is supposed that because of his general bad character and to prevent a recurrence of such killings as that of Croullias, Brinkley was lynched.

The Stock Market.

New York, July 22. There was not a weak spot in the whole list today, save a net loss of over a point in Sugar quotations. The value of business was large and broad. Bonds as well as stocks were strong and the dealings were extended to many hitherto moribund securities. Decreased exports of grain and lower quotations for wheat as well as London arbitrage sales are ignored and the market advanced on pools in short. The highest figures were recorded in many securities about noon but an even larger number of securities scored about the best prices at the close.

Sugar fell 3½ to 140 in the initial dealings, recovered the loss but was again pressed for sale and ended with a loss of 1⅜. The grangers and southwesterns were the leaders in the day's upward movement on large dealings. Other stocks conspicuous for their strength and activity were Lead, Chicago Gas, General Electric, Louisville & Nashville and the Gould Shares. Rock Island scored a net advance of 2½ points on rumors of increased earning capacity.

Coalers were neglected, because of trade conditions. The rise in the industrials, including a point and a quarter in cotton oil common and two in the preferred, one in starch second preferred, were attributed to an expected increased demand of their products said to be expected because of the new tariff. General Electric advanced 1¼ on unconfirmed reports of an adjustment of back dividends on the preferred stock.

The market generally closed with a net advance of 1½. ANDREE'S EXPEDITION.

Excites Keen Interest In London Geographical Circles.

Some Doubt Expressed that Either Carrier Pigeon Came from Andree.

Curious Fact that the Inscription Agrees With the Location Expected.

London, July 22. Keen interest is felt in geographical circles here as to the result of Andree's polar expedition, and this is greatly increased by the arrival of the pigeons at Soevde and at Tromsoe Island, though there is some doubt as to whether either bird came from Andree.

It is a curious fact that the inscription "142 W. 45.62" agrees exactly with the geographical location from which the London experts believe they might hear from Andree at about this time.

There is no special anxiety felt here as to Andree's fate, because even if the balloon comes to grief, Andree will be no worse off than Nansen was after leaving Fram.

Whig and Courier

BY BOUTELLE BROTHERS.

FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1897.

A Ludicrous Wail.

The New York Evening Post insists that the tariff bill as "it left the conference committee is "scandalous," that "this accumulation of abominations is getting to be more than the American people are willing to put up with," that "the course of the Administration and Congress with reference to the tariff and the currency has brought the country into extreme danger of a temporary ascendancy of Bryanism," and impresses on the tariff reformer the necessity of the most vigorous preaching of which he is capable."

This is indeed an amusing wail. We wonder just where those American people who are unwilling to put up with a protective tariff are located? It is only a few months since they announced most emphatically that they could no longer put up with a Democratic tariff. They nominated President McKinley as a protectionist and elected him as a protectionist. Instead of the tariff bringing the "country into extreme danger of a temporary ascendancy of Bryanism," it contributed more than any other feature of the campaign last year to the downfall of the free silver advocates. Its strength as an issue in the campaign was even recognized by the Post which at that time, declared that the Republicans were best able to determine the kind of a canvass necessary to success.

For once that sheet manifested a ray of common sense. The Republicans did manage their own campaign and the prominence of the tariff gave to the sound money ticket thousands of votes that would have been lost to it had the foolish advice of ex-Secretary Whitney and others been accepted. The American people are not placing obstacles in the way of the tariff bill. On the contrary they are bringing every possible argument to bear upon the Senate to secure the earliest enactment of legislation for which they voted with so much unanimity last fall.

The tariff reformers began "the most vigorous preaching" of which they are capable at the time of Cleveland's first election and have preached and preached till they are unable themselves to-day to define what is meant by "tariff reform." The only illustration the people have had in recent years was afforded by the Gorman-Wilson law, historically known as "party perfidy and party dishonor," and actually known as the most disastrous legislation written upon the statute books in the history of the country. Its effect was so destructive, that Cleveland himself was forced to abandon the tariff issue and thus open the doors to Bryanism. Since then the Democratic tariff faith has been growing more and more obscure and led to a lively tilt in the House the other day between Bailey and McMillin both of whom claimed to represent the real doctrine of the party while miles apart. Bailey, the recognized Democratic leader in the House, repudiated the preaching of Cleveland on the subject and declared that the very bed-rock of the Democratic faith as preached all these years, free raw materials, was a Mugwump monstrosity, that had no place in the Democratic creed to-day.

Now in view of these circumstances we would suggest that the Post apply ice to its heated brow and after its temperature has been reduced so as to enable it to reason logically that it institute an investigation to discover what has become of its alleged tariff reform theory, and to state who, the tariff reformer is to preach with all the vigor of which he is capable. It is simply wasting energy when it attempts to discuss the needs of the American people in general, because its ideas, at least so far as the tariff is concerned, are not the ones entertained by the American people, but it might employ any spare time on its hands in trying to find just where the Democratic party is at on the tariff.

The Close of Congress.

The Brooklyn Standard-Union says: The question of winding up the business of the extra session of Congress is in the hands of the Democratic Senators, and the Populists and others who are against the Administration. These gentlemen are not insensible of the fact that it is a splendid stroke of the Republicans to have perfected the tariff bill thus early in the summer. They know that it is a strong measure, extremely well handled throughout on the side of the administration, and going to be in a high degree acceptable to the country. The sensational trust talk is beneath contempt.

The strong men in Congress on the opposition side know how little there is in the yellow rot about trusts, and the general clamor as to robbery and the old, stale twaddle at large of the British free traders, who did not know what they wanted when they had a Democratic President only a little above the angels, and a Democratic Congress turning out to be a wild, ungovernable team. This was the last Democratic chance to legislate free trade on the platform of the Southern Confederacy, and they were incapable of improving it, for they are degenerate.

That which they produced was the Wilson-Gorman law, stuffed with the income tax and five hundred Senate amendments, the important ones dictated by plain bargain and sale—the whole an abomination—the legislation with no principle, and destructive; too mean even for Cleveland in his high and dull conceits to sign.

It was in the period of uncertainty and threatening, beginning as soon as it appeared that a Democratic President and Congress had been elected, and continuing through the nine months that Cleveland gave himself, before Congress met, to parcel out offices with the stupid personal insistence that was never exceeded by any spoilsman, that the industries and the hopeful enterprises of the country were held up and that there came the paralysis of cold and clammy hard times. After that stroke of death to business in the name and terms of Democratic reform, the free trade fad was committed to the tomb, and William McKinley was nominated and elected President of the United States, because he was the foremost man in the country for the principles upon which to found the policy of protection.

Since the inauguration of McKinley, the Mugwumps have showered him with their choicest maledictions, because he, like a true Executive of the Nation, knowing the first thing to do, to help the country, did it—calling an extra session of Congress, to meet, in eleven days, after he got into the White House, to frame a tariff, and had a bill ready.

That this was a big, brave, wise, strong thing to do, there is not the shadow of a doubt. The small tin whistle tempest against the tariff is not important. It is but a noise by incapables who have had their day and wasted it, their opportunity and did not know what it was. More than one hundred days has the tariff measure been delayed through matters of form and perfunctory passions affected by a blatherous, confused opposition, and yet here is the bill ready, reported from the Conference Committee, and through the House. The President has saved more than a year—nearly a year and a half—of good time for the people, in spite of his antagonists. That is the certainty the country has long waited for. There is a majority in both Houses of Congress for that measure just as it stands, and the McKinley Administration tariff law, after the dismal and disastrous Democratic interlude, succeeds the McKinley law, and we shall see whether the country will not respond with a hearty amen!

The first showing in Congress of the opposition to the conference bill indicated anxiety to say all that was possible in hostility to the bill, but not to protract discussion in a filibustering sense. It would have been in vain to have attempted that in the House, and it is not expected that the Senate will distinguish itself with delays.

We are not surprised the Democratic Populistic partisans are aghast at the situation. They know they can no longer hold the country down to hard times; and they want to say all they can about "trusts," and stir up all the elements of malignity, that would strike down the prosperity of the people itself for partisan advantage. One feels sorry for these partisans. They need something with a strand to hold as a clew, or a ray of light to show a path, for the tariff issue will serve them no more, and the silver fraud, fitful as a jack o' lantern, is their guiding star, and the Dismal Swamp for them is right ahead.

That which will hurry—we may say, force—the speedy adjournment of Congress—the acquiescence of the Senate in the inevitable—is the fact that the Republicans have full confidence in the work of their hands and are ready to trust it to the people, and do not care now to enter into elaborate explanations. They can and do say, here is the bill that will be the law, and the Democratic Populistic talk is the delay of incompetency, that fails to command any situation but one of defeat, and has not the talent to close, so far as they are concerned, an incident that is already concluded in the public mind and acted upon as a finished and fixed fact. Here is the law, act upon it now. The sugar stock advance was only one sign that the nation is ready to rise to the occasion. A thousand interests will be heartened and expand from improved foundations.

STATUE TO GEN. LOGAN

Unveiled With Imposing Ceremonies at Chicago.

Over 20,000 Men in the Parade—Mr. Peck's Speech.

Chicago, July 22.—John A. Logan's monument in Lake Front park was dedicated with much pomp this afternoon. A few minutes past 1 o'clock John A. Logan III, the five year old grandson of the "Black Eagle" pulled the silken cord which parted the veils concealing the magnificent likeness of the great commander as he rallied the broken ranks of the Federal troops and led them on to victory before the city of Atlanta, July 22, 1864.

Crowds began assembling along Michigan avenue at an early hour this morning anticipating the crush which was to follow and proceeded to establish themselves in position for a day of sight seeing. Reviewing stands lined the broad thoroughfare facing the monument. Window space was at a premium.

The work of the committees in charge of the dedication was perfect. The immense body of troops was handled without a hitch.

President McKinley was unable to leave Washington, but the government was represented by Secretary of War Russell A. Alger.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the reviewing stand at the monument began filling with distinguished personages. Seats were provided for 5,000.

Gov. Tanner and suite, Illinois; Gov. Scofield and suite, Wisconsin; Gov. Mount and suite of Indiana, and Gov. Holcomb, and staff of Nebraska, were among the first to enter, following immediately after the presentation committee.

Secretary of War Alger and judges of the supreme and circuit courts came next, escorted by Chairman W. H. Harper of the executive committee and Geo. R. Peck, the orator of the day. Sculptor St. Gaudens followed. The Logan family, Mrs. John A. Logan, Major and Mrs. W. F. Tucker, Capt. and Mrs. John A. Logan were almost the last to enter the stand.

The boom of cannon on board the revenue cutters Gresham, Fessenden and Calumet anchored in the bay, announced the hour of one.

The Rev. Arthur Edwards, in an eloquent prayer opened the ceremonies.

Henry W. Blodgett, chairman of the presentation committee, on behalf of the commissioners, presented the monument to the state; and amidst the rattle of artillery "Little Jack III" tugged at the silken cord, the veils fell from the statue and the thousands applauded. Again the artillery salute rent the air as the United States band struck up the stirring "Battle Scenes of the War."

Gov. Tanner in a short speech, accepted the monument on behalf of Illinois, and gave way to the orator of the day, George R. Peck.

Mr. Peck paid an eloquent tribute to the soldier, statesman with whom he served as a comrade in arms.

The speaker said:

Mr. Peck's Speech.

Illinois is proud and happy. Waiting patiently for a fitting time, she opens all her welcoming gates and bids the world take note what breed of men she rears. Here is the product of her soil, and here she brings a mother's exultant heart to be enshrined.

Some are here to whom it seems but yesterday. They remember the clustering pines, the thickets, dark with the foliage of July, the spires of Atlanta, wooing them forward, yet a little further, and they remember, too, as they will remember always the message, speeding like an arrow in its flight, that told how McPherson lay dead in his harness ere yet his fame had passed its dawn. On that day—July 22, 1864—John A. Logan was born to immortality.

Here we place his image for all generations. Here we salute the soldier, the statesman and the man, in memory of that sublime moment when he took into his keeping the flag, the issue and the cause.

The soldier in battle does not consciously arrange dramatic situations. When John A. Logan, summoned by destiny, rode sabred and spurred, along those bleeding lines, beautiful in the deep sense that makes the heroic always beautiful, he little thought of the banners that wave for him today.

That day at Atlanta had none of the romantic surroundings which give artificial renown to battlefields. No pyramids, hiding the grim secrets of the centuries, looked down upon them. It was not Lodi, where a general could dash across a bridge to victory. There were no narrow paths to glory. It was breast-to-breast fighting, such as seldom comes in any war; a confused mass, struggling against an enemy that was everywhere. And, in the midst of them, was Logan, chief—not because of his epaulettes, but because the command had fallen on one who knew what to do and could not breathe until it was done.

He is past all flattery. Shall we call him brave? Others have worn that crimson badge. Great men become types. The people single them out, with the ready common sense, which belongs to no man, but to all men. Logan is our great volunteer. So they have named him, and so he will be known, when we are forgotten. Whatever is heroic, they can make classic.

In calling him the Great Volunteer, we have, unwittingly, done injustice to Logan. He was not a mere fighter. He had a rare genius of leadership. Ask those who served with him, and they will answer: "Men whom Logan led never turned back." Only a comprehensive mind can make events as they come and mould them to its will, as if they had been ordered in advance. Regiment, brigade, division, corps, army; these are the steps he took.

This hour is dedicated to Logan as a soldier. He won it from the calendar, and made it his own. But in the midst of all this pageantry, we must not forget that he was a statesman in the most trying times of all our history. It is not for me, at this august moment, to discuss any question of party opinion. Logan was a man of positive views; plain, direct and uncompromising.

For what he believed to be right he would fight in the Senate as undauntedly as he fought on the field. He was for freedom, and for all those great amendments of the constitution that made freedom organic in this nation; he was for equality before the law; he was for the common soldier who had felt, as he had at Donelson, the wound, which is the soldier's best decoration; he was for the national honor, on land and sea; for the army and navy, and for force, if need be, to defend every right which ought to be recognized without force.

He, more than any other, created the Grand Army of the Republic; that organization which makes us remember what we are prone to forget. Here his form will sleep forever, guarded by them and by those who follow them. I greet you, comrades, in memory of our great commander, and in memory of the old days and the old cause.

It was he who gave us the sweet observance of Memorial day. Only a poet could have thought it; only a poet could have made it come true. It is above all others our best loved holiday; our festival of memory, love and beauty. We shall keep it forever, with all the flowers that grow upon the prairies and in the gardens of Illinois. And there will be tears.

If we listen we shall hear an echo of all we do today. The people everywhere are thinking of him because he always thought of them. It is an old lesson, and a good lesson. We never needed it more than now. If he were alive, what voice would ring like his for civic honor? What form would lead like his, the nation, the state and the city? Nothing was too great, nothing too small, if only it were right, for him to espouse. To all the duties of peace he brought the rugged qualities that made him great in war.

Men of the south, the Grand Army welcomes you, the Loyal Legion welcomes you, and the nation greets you with an open hand. Brave men cannot hate you forever. If we conquered you once, you have, in a beautiful sense, conquered us today, when you mingle your love with ours for the heroic, for the patriotic, and—surely I may say it—for the flag which has been saved for us all.

Here we make a sacred place. Here we consecrate a name already consecrated in our bravest annals. We give the statue to the world, in the presence of the wife he loved and honored, and whom we love and honor. His children and his children's children are here to learn how great a name they bear.

He is not ours alone; but yet we claim him. In coming years, the throngs that crowd the avenue will see a silent figure, always on duty. They will know—and all the world will know—it is Logan. Illinois has kept her trust.

The programme was completed shortly after 3 o'clock.

Over 20,000 Men in Line.

The parade and review followed. The troops, falling in line in Twelfth street at the command of Grand Marshal Gen. Brooke of the Department of Missouri, marched north on Michigan avenue, past the reviewing stand. Over 20,000 men were in line, headed by a squad of police on foot. The survivors of Gen. Logan's old regiment, the 31st Illinois volunteers led the van proudly bearing the old regimental flag, tattered and torn by 200 Confederate bullets. Then came the grizzled veterans of the G. A. R., with bare heads in honor of their first and idolized commander-in-chief.

With the veterans marched the ex-Confederates 200 strong. The appearance of the veterans of the gray was a touching tribute to the man they met in battle on the bloody field of Atlanta. Behind the southerners marched, with steady swing 2,500 regulars, the largest number seen together here since the civil war. Every branch of the service was represented, including eight troops of cavalry.

The governors of states, with their staffs followed and then came the Illinois National Guard, 700 strong, under command of Gov. Tanner as commander-in-chief. Knights Templar and Knights of Pythias followed to the number of 1500. The rear was brought up by 1200 Chicago mail carriers and 3,000 uniformed detachments of various civic societies not bearing arms. The parade was over two hours in passing the reviewing stand.

The pageant on land was supplemented by the finest marine display ever seen on Lake Michigan. Grouped around the revenue cutters Gresham, Fessenden and Calumet, which were anchored just off the monument were nearly 200 vessels of the merchant marine and private yachts all gaily decorated for the occasion.

This evening a public reception will be held at the coliseum for Mrs. Logan and other distinguished guests. The reception will be preceded by a gorgeous display of fireworks in the coliseum gardens.

The Statue.

The statue of Gen. Logan which was dedicated this afternoon was designed by St. Gaudens and is the largest equestrian statue in America. The figure of Gen. Logan as it stands on its granite pedestal is dressed in the uniform of a major general. He sits erect and bareheaded, with his left hand grasping the bridle rein, while with his right hand he bears aloft the flag. The endeavor of the sculptor was to reproduce as nearly as possible the scene presented as Logan rallied the troops before Atlanta after Gen. McPherson's death.

From the base to the top of the horse's withers is 11 feet three inches and to the top of Logan's head is 15 feet 11 inches. The entire weight is [illegible] pounds. The statue stands 21 feet above Lake Michigan. Through the center of the mound a foundation of brick has been built, within which is a crypt for the reception of Gen. Logan's remains.

The approach leading up to the monument is by a series of steps and terraces 96 feet long. The statue faces Eldredge court in the center of Lake Front park, and is in full view of Gen. Logan's old home in Park Row. The entire expense of erecting and unveiling was $[illegible] of which the state appropriated $[illegible].

THE BIG STRIKE.

Governor of West Virginia Thinks Miners Will Win.

Chicago, July 22.—A shortage of coal has begun to make itself manifest in the Chicago market. The Chicago sugar refinery, which used 400 tons of bituminous coal daily, has suspended operations in view of the high prices of fuel. Local coal men believe that the sugar refinery suspension is forerunner of a number of similar cases when large consumers attempt to replenish their stock.

Gov. George W. Atkinson, of West Virginia, who is here attending the Logan day ceremonies, believes that the miners will eventually win in the great coal strike.

Will Aid the Strikers.

St. Louis, Mo., July 22.—A special from Mount Olive, Ills., says: The business men of this city are taking steps to aid the miners in their efforts to secure better wages. Funds have been raised and a committee appointed by Mayor Fuchs will distribute the money where most needed. A delegation of 100 miners left here for Coffeen where they will assist other delegates in getting the Coffeen men to join their movement.

HANGED BY A MOB.

A Colored Brute Chased Through Four Counties.

Atlanta, Ga., July 22.—Oscar Williams, the negro who committed an assault on the daughter of a Henry county farmer last week and was transferred to the Macon jail for safe keeping was taken from the Central railroad train on which he was being brought to Atlanta at Griffin this morning and lynched. Williams was pursued through four counties by hundreds of armed men immediately after committing his crime, but managed to escape.

He was finally captured by a farmer at Barnesville and hurried off to Macon where it was thought he would be safe, as the militia were on guard. To make sure of his safety, however, the officers decided to take him to Atlanta.

They started with him on the Central train, leaving Macon at 4.20 o'clock. At Griffin, 40 miles from Atlanta, near the scene of Williams' crime a mob boarded the train, took the negro from his guards, marched him through the principal street of the town to a point 200 yards outside the corporation limits where they hanged him to a small oak tree. His body was then riddled with 500 bullets.

The members of the mob made no attempt at disguise and their names are known in Griffin, which is a town of 5,000 people. Several of them were heard to declare that if they had Mayor Hagely of Barnesville, who saved Williams from being lynched when first captured by calling out the militia they would hang him by the negro's side. Williams confessed to his captors before they swung him up.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Government of India Decides to Prosecute Editors.

Bombay, July 22.—The government has decided to prosecute some of the editors of the newspapers in the Poona district which have been most conspicuous in the publications of seditious articles of late, calculated to stir up the natives against British rule. The articles chiefly complained of are those that have put a false construction upon the efforts of the officials to check the spread of the plague.

These endeavors have been represented as made in utter defiance of the native religious customs and prejudices, the sanitary purpose of the regulations being absolutely and it appears, wilfully ignored.

The publications are believed to have been largely responsible for the recent outbreaks in the Poona district and along the Hoogly, including the disturbances in Calcutta.

There has been during the last ten days an alarming increase of deaths from cholera in the Bombay presidency and some recrudescence of the bubonic plague. On the other hand, as a result of the plentiful rainfall the crop prospects throughout the presidency are improving.

ON THE SAFE SIDE.

United States Consulate at Matanzas Armed.

New York, July 22.—A special to the Herald from Havana says: Mr. Brice, United States consul in Matanzas, has armed the consulate in consequence of threats of a demonstration against Americans made by some of the ultra conservatives in that place. Consul Brice does not believe the threats will be carried into execution, but in view of the present state of feeling openly expressed by many Spaniards he deems precautions necessary.

France Makes Best Showing.

New York, July 22.—A despatch to the Herald from Brussels says: The finest showing at the exhibition here is made by France, Great Britain is a good second and Germany third, but the exhibit of the United States is most melancholy. There is an amazing display of cheap and shoppy furniture labelled as made in obscure western towns. There is a creditable display of American tools, agricultural implements and bicycles. In fact, the last named exhibits exceed those of all the other countries.

J. H. Gore, commissioner general of the United States at the exposition says: "The chief cause of our failure is the small amount of money appropriated by Congress for our proper representation."

"Terrible Pete" Hanged for Murder.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 22.—Peter Wassel, alias "Terrible Pete", was hanged in the county jail yard today. The drop fell at 10.30 and at 10.36 he was pronounced dead.

Wassel shot and killed Joe Kupersavage, of Georgetown, this county, on Jan. 16, 1897.

Wassel had been drinking, and during the evening tried to pick a quarrel with Charles Legus. Later he fired at him but Legus jumped back. The bullet crashed through the window, and struck Kupersavage in the head. He died two hours later.

The McCloud Murder Trial.

Greenfield, Mass., July 22.—Today's session of the McCloud murder trial opened with Jas. Woods on the stand, and his examination together with that of Reuben Fenton and Dennis O'Brien, who were with O'Neil on the night of the murder, took most of the forenoon.

According to the testimony presented, at about 8 o'clock O'Neil was with these three friends on Ward's Corner. They had all been drinking, and at the hour mentioned they had agreed to separate for supper and meet again in the evening. When O'Neil left the crowd it was noticed that he staggered and in spite of the agreement he did not reappear until after 8 o'clock. Most of the drinking had been done, it was stated, at the Woodward House bar.

James P. Woodward, the bartender at the Woodward House, who was also called this forenoon, stated that O'Neil did not pay for any of the drinks, intimating that he had no money. Mr. Woodward said it was 8.15 o'clock when O'Neil was in the bar room that evening.

Economy and strength are combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month.

Big Oxen Joe and Jerry

The greatest yoke of cattle ever seen in this country is owned by J D Avery of Buckland Mass. They are named Joe and Jerry. Their age is eight years, and they measure ten feet in girth. They stand seventeen hands high and their measurement from tip to tip is fifteen feet 11 inches. There is not a difference of ten pounds in weight between them, and the two together tip the scales at 7 300 pounds. They hold the world's record for one pull, having drawn 11 061 pounds of stone, loaded on a dray, on a level just eight feet in one draw. They are models of symmetry in build, are extremely kind and docile and beautifully colored. The best of care is devoted to them, one man spending several hours every day in grooming and cleaning them. They have been on exhibition at all of the principal agricultural fairs in the country.

In speaking of his handsome yoke of oxen Mr Avery said "The oxen have not by any means reached their limit. They have gained in weight some 700 pounds the past year and are capable of carrying another thousand pounds. Unlike other large cattle their flesh is distributed very evenly, which adds very much to their looks, and they stand on their limbs as straight as a pair of calfs.

They are remarkably intelligent and well trained. They are very active and can easily walk a mile in thirty minutes. They are colored like all pure Holsteins, black and white. Their coats are as fine and glossy as a thoroughbred racer's. They are still worked moderately when at home. Their yoke was made to order, and probably is the largest yoke ever worn by any team. It is seven feet in length and weighs 100 pounds.

Their crowning glory is their magnificent set of highly polished horns. For size, quality, mating, and beauty combined their equal does not exist in the world. It may be of interest to know that their feed consists of eight to twelve quarts of corn and oats ground together, two quarts of flax meal, and from six to eight quarts of bran each day, with an occasional change to suit their appetites."

SCHOONERS IN COLLISION.

The P. L. Dewis Sunk in Vineyard Sound.

Vessel and Cargo Probably a Total Loss—Crew Escaped.

Vineyard Haven, Mass, July 22—A collision between the schooner P L Dewis of Parrsboro N S and the Lottie R Russell of Leesburg N J occurred in Vineyard Sound last night, as the result of which the Dewis lies sunk about eighty fathoms of water. OPPOSED TO INVESTIGATION

Adverse Report by the Senate Committee on Tillman's Sugar Resolution

Washington, July 23 Senator Tillman's investigation resolution was heard from again in the Senate today.

Senator Jones of Nevada, chairman of the committee on contingent expenses, today submitted the report of that committee on the resolution introduced by Senator Tillman for an investigation of the charges of speculating in sugar stock, etc. The report takes a strong position against ordering the investigation and is a very exhaustive review of the procedure of the Senate in the past in such matters.

The report takes the position that aside from the names of the newspaper men themselves only the name of Senator Smith of New Jersey is mentioned in the newspapers making the charge on which the resolution was based. The position is taken that the newspaper men do not count inasmuch as these men do not profess to write from knowledge and justify, if not always declining to disclose the sources of their information.

With reference to Senator Smith the report says "Here is a newspaper charge made against a senator of the United States without any averment of personal knowledge on the part of the writer and without the slightest particle of evidence to sustain it. On the other hand, we have a definite, explicit and absolute denial of the charge from the senator affected—a denial publicly made from his place in the Senate upon the responsibility of his position as a senator of the United States."

As to the clause of the resolution which charges that Brokers in New York knew in advance as to what the finance committee would report as to the sugar schedule, the committee say they can find in the newspapers clippings presented in support of the proposed inquiry nothing but indefinite allegations, insinuations, guesses and inferences drawn by correspondents from hearsay statements and the hearsay sometimes several degrees removed.

The attack of one of the correspondents is characterized as "delicate" ... and ... determination to, if possible, bring upon the sub-committee of the finance committee the contempt of the country.

Wherever the report continues "we approach a statement that, judging from the sensational heading of the article, seems about to give us definite and responsible information which could be reached by an investigation we are disappointed to find that instead of affording evidence of the alleged fact, the statements consist of insinuations, mysterious hints and indefinite allusions made on the authority of some person whose name the correspondent does not disclose."

All these innuendos are met in the most direct and emphatic manner by the statements of the senator from Rhode Island, Mr Aldrich, the chairman of the sub-committee of the finance committee having in charge the arrangement of the details of the tariff bill.

Senator Aldrich's reply to Senator Tillman in which he refers to Senator Jones, of Nevada, as the only senator outside of the sub-committee who had knowledge of its proceedings is quoted at length. Replying to this statement Senator Jones makes an individual parenthetical statement in which he says:

He is a member of the finance committee of the Senate and that such information as he obtained from the sub-committee on the occasion referred to by the senator from Rhode Island was information received in legitimate official consultation with the members of the sub-committee and that such information was conveyed by Mr Jones to no ... in any form or manner before the presentation of the particulars to the Senate and this publication is due an orderly course.

The report takes the position that the distinct assertions of senators are not to be outweighed by newspaper attacks instigated by men willing to make statements to newspaper correspondents with a view to publication and then like assassins who use the stiletto in the dark skulk behind those correspondents and refuse to permit their names to be made known even for purposes of evidence.

The Currency Message

It is understood at the capitol today that the President will send in his currency commission message immediately after the tariff bill is signed.

Ray Pettingill, son of D W Pettingill, of Augusta, while picking berries Tuesday, on the hill back of the State House, came upon a deer asleep. He approached within 30 feet of the animal when it jumped up in the air and scrambled to the shelter of the bushes. Thinking twice about the matter the deer turned to see what he had been so frightened about. There seemed to be nothing very alarming so the deer stayed for a while but kept his distance.

Benjamin E Sullivan, of Lewiston, was arraigned in the Portland municipal court Wednesday forenoon on the charge of embezzlement preferred by the Norton Cigar Company, of Boston, of which Sullivan was agent. He was arrested at Old Orchard last Saturday. It was alleged that his shortage amounted to about $500 but the amount alleged in this complaint was said to be only the Cumberland county accounts. The others are in York and Androscoggin counties. After brief arguments the court held that the evidence was not sufficient to hold Sullivan and he was discharged.

Method in His Madness.

Largely on account of the fact that Charles Frederick A Meisel, of No 11 Strong Place, Brooklyn, (examining chemist in the New York custom house, sent a despatch to ex-Appraiser Walter H. Bunn, urging him, last Wednesday, to buy all the sugar certificates he could at the price current then, predicting an immediate rise and a consequent benefit to Mr Bunn, Mr. Meisel was adjudged mentally unbalanced by his family and bundled off to a private sanitarium at Hartford, Conn, there to regain his supposedly lost equilibrium.

On Wednesday last sugar was selling at 133 and hid ex Appraiser Bunn acted on his former subordinate's tip and bought one thousand shares of sugar he would have been better off by $10 000.

And the young man who had the foresight and temerity to wish to make a coup in Wall street is now walking around the sitting-room of a retreat for the insane, and countless wondering what use brains are to a young man.

This anomalous state of affairs did not come to light in Brooklyn until Monday. Many of Meisel's friends question the wisdom of those who had him sent away.

Meisel was formerly suspended from duty at the Appraiser's Stores in Washington street, New York, on Friday. Lately he had shown signs of mental disturbance. He had been watched closely by his co-laborers and when on Wednesday he sent the despatch to Mr Bunn advising him to go to the Exchange at once and buy all the securities he could raise the money for, his relatives considered that he had reached a critical mental crisis, and they took the action referred to.

When Mr Rose the chief clerk in the appraiser's office was asked about Meisel's case he said he was satisfied, as soon as he saw its telegram to Mr Bunn, that Meisel was not in his right mind. Dr Sl... who is at the head of the chemical department said he had noticed for several days that Mr Meisel's mind was wondering. He thought Mr. Meisel had worked too hard and believed that a short vacation in the country would help him to regain his health.

Meisel is 23 years old. He graduated from the school of Mines Columbia College, three years ago and has always been a hard student. His father is Albert C M Meisel, a chemical merchant at No 20 Park place, New York. The family is wealthy. When seen at his home the young man's father said:

"Please do not ask me anything about my son. I have nothing to say. He is ill in the country. That is all there is to say."

Some of young Meisel's friends are astonished that his case was handled with such precipitancy. "Why did they not," said one, "tell him take a week or two off and see whether he was mentally unstrung or not without sending him among people of unsound mind? Meisel was a hard student and one thinker at whatever he concentrated his mind on, and when after studying the sugar market he concluded it would be a good time for Mr Bunn to buy it seemed as clear to him as a problem in physics or chemistry. His sugar tip was absolutely clear headed and indicated foresight and good judgment. All he needed was a rest but not among the insane."

On the other hand Mr Meisel's family seemed to have acted on trustworthy medical advice.

Scared the Janitor

Michael Bachman, who is janitor of a big flat house at No 7.3 Columbus avenue New York with frightened ejaculations rushed into the West One hundred ... street police station Monday night.

Sergeant Cottrell who was decorating the records and thinking of the Guldensuppe murder at the time, was so rattled at the pallid aspect of Bachman's countenance and his dramatic utterances that he ruled black lines where he should have written red ones. Bachman sank down into a chair breathless and speechless. Then Sergeant Cottrell so soon as the man had regained his breath sent Detectives Boyle and Conway with him. When they returned they brought with them a skull so old that it was polished and a lot of medical students' papers.

Bachman it appeared had been ordered to clean out the basement of No 7.3 Columbus avenue, which had been used as a storehouse. Among the collection of junk was an old trunk. When Bachman lifted the lid of the trunk he beheld the skull. That was enough for him. His headlong dash to the police station followed. The skull was placed in a cell and afterwards taken to the Morgue. Sergeant Jimmy Lynch examined the relic and declared with due solemnity that it was not Guldensuppe's.

A Sweet Revenge

It is claimed that this story originated in Cleveland a claim which may very well be true because Cleveland—and especially the east end—has more precocious children in the acre than Boston could boast of in her palmiest days, says the Plain Dealer. This particular precocious infant lives on a pretty cross street in that favored locality. Not long ago she was troubled with an annoying and persistent toothache. Finally her mamma took her to a dentist and the dentist interviewed the troublesome tooth.

After examining it he told her that the best thing to do under the circumstances was to have the tooth extracted as it contained a very large cavity and this was the seat of the trouble.

Bracing herself firmly in the chair she bade him go ahead and remove the acher. After the operation was over she carefully wrapped the tooth in paper and declared she would take it home.

Next day her mamma noticed that she was an unusually good girl, and upon looking around located her in a window seat industriously poking sugar into the cavity of the extracted tooth. Her mother demanded the cause of this strange proceeding.

"Why," she said, "I'm poking sugar in the old thing just to see it ache."

Ants and Their Uses.

During 12 months spent in the Australian colonies in the years 1870-1, I had more opportunities than were pleasant of studying the habits of ants. These insects as is well known are not only a nuisance but an absolute pest in hot countries. They march in myriads and destroy everything in their road. In justice to the ants I am bound, however, to admit that I have found them useful in more ways than one. For instance, I bought an opossum skin rug from a native. I soon became painfully aware of the fact that it literally swarmed with fleas and other vermin. In vain did I exhaust my stock of pepper. Even turpentine seemed to have no effect beyond increasing the reckless activity of these irritating settlers.

At last in despair I threw my rug down on an ant hill. In less than half an hour every flea and objectionable parasite was eaten but the rug was full of ants. I therefore hung it on a mimosa bush and as soon as the ants found they were suspended they hastened to leave the rug and descended by the bush as best they could.

Again I had killed a snake in Tasmania and wished to clean and bleach the skeleton which I intended to have mounted as a necklace. I left the body near an ants' nest. In a few hours there was not a vestige of flesh on the bones. The ants soon did the rest.—Gentleman's Magazine.

The Largest Book.

Professor Max Muller of Oxford, in a recent lecture, called attention to the largest book in the world, the wonderful Kuth Daw. It consists of 729 parts, in the shape of white marble plates covered with inscriptions, each plate built over with a temple of brick. It is found near the old priest city of Mandalay, in Burma and this temple city of more than 700 pagodas virtually makes up this monster book.

A man who claims to be a veteran of the war met with a mishap Wednesday forenoon and he is likely to be confined in the Maine General Hospital where he was taken for several days. It is alleged that he was stealing a ride on a Maine Central freight train to Deering and fell off the cars. One leg was badly jammed. The police station was telephoned to and Rice's ambulance went out and got the unfortunate. The man, whose name could not be learned, said he came from Providence R I.

William T Merchan, alias Frank Edwards who was indicted by the grand jury at the last term of court for burglaries committed at Kennebunk is safely in the custody of the York county officers having been brought from St Catherine's Ont, Tuesday. County Attorney Emmons and Deputy Sheriff Miles left Biddeford on the Pullman train Sunday morning, and went directly to Buffalo which is not very far from St Catherine's, that the latter place being only about a mile across the line in Canada. They found Merchant in the custody of the local authorities and he had at ready signified his willingness to accompany them back to Maine without obliging them to go through the formal process of taking out extradition papers. They had little trouble and little delay in taking ready to return to York county. They arrived in Boston Tuesday evening and took their prisoner to the Hanover street station for keeping over night. Wednesday morning they left Boston and went to Alfred it having been decided to keep Merchant there until the settling of the September term or court. Merchant's arrest in St Catherine's was brought about through the efforts of Marshal Herman who was given the case to work on several weeks ago.

The little six years old son of Mrs Dasher of Savannah Ga who is summering at Little Diamond Island while playing on the float at the wharf Tuesday, in some way fell into the water and was struggling for life when Master Clifford Chandler son of William F Chandler the only one on the wharf at the time ran down the long steps entered a boat, pushed out to the boy and threw him a rope and dragged the Dasher boy ashore in an exhausted condition. Clifford Chandler who is only about eight years of age displayed great presence of mind and should be considered a candidate for a medal from the Humane society for his brave act in saving a life.

The trial of Thomas Doyle the ex special police officer of Biddeford who was arrested last week by Officer Martin did not come off in the police court Tuesday morning as the counsel for the State were not ready to go on with it. It was thought at first that County Attorney Emmons would return in time to take charge of the matter, but he did not and Hamilton & Cleaves were engaged to look after the State's interest. They, however, are obliged to attend the law court sitting in Portland, and a postponement of the Doyle case for a week was asked. The case if it comes to trial will be a long one, as both sides have a big array of witnesses and the counsel for Doyle have been hard at work securing evidence for their side.

Charles Harrison Cleaves of Saco, the inventor and marble sculptor who came within an ace of making a couple of million on an electric propeller for sail and row boats, has the gold craze the worst way and contemplates organizing a party to start for Alaska. He has not yet perfected arrangements for his journey but has already found a number of Saco young men who have the fever and who are willing to throw up their jobs in order to seek their fortune in the Klondyke fields. Marble Cutter Cleaves will probably make the 5000 mile journey on his ordinary nickle plated wheel which years ago was considered the finest cycle in Western Maine. He is an expert bicyclist and years ago could turn cart wheels and perform various other extraordinary feats on his bike. He is confident that he can ride over the mountains with the greatest of ease and thus save money enough to buy a couple dozen eggs and other necessaries of life.

Willy Lee the mayor of Hill's Beach Biddeford is very indignant because Charles Huff led his broncho to town and tried to get him put into a pound. The old veteran says that his pony has had all he wanted to eat. He does admit letting "Schuyler" out to feed but has doubts about his eating on another man's lawn. Lee says he will look for damages and thinks he was hurt $5 worth by the animal's forcible detention from home.

Twelve dentists, that is dentists to be, if they are successful, presented themselves Wednesday afternoon before the State board of dental examiners to be examined in regard to their competency to practice as regular dentists. The law requires all those wishing to thus practice in the State to qualify, if they were not already practicing when the law was passed or have not since passed examinations. The candidates were mostly young men and from the way they started in they evidently meant business. The examinations were held in the office of Dr E J Roberts, the chairman of the board. The other members were all present as follows: Drs D W Fellows, Portland, L S Chilcott, Bangor, I O Sawyer, Skowhegan, E C Bryant, Pittsfield.

On account of certain complaints which reached City Marshal Morse, of Augusta, regarding Benjamin Emerson of Rome alleging that the latter on the night of Friday, July 9, had while drunk, beat his horse to death the matter was taken up by Agent J F Bean of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and on Wednesday Emerson was taken to Augusta by Deputy Sheriff M S Gordon, of Vienna, and the case was given a hearing before Judge A G Andrews in the Augusta municipal court. The testimony given was not conclusive and the judge dismissed the case, stating that a further investigation of the case would be made.

As the result of a collision on the Ferry road in Saco some two weeks ago, whereby Samuel Haines, of that city was seriously injured, and a man named Coburn was considerably bruised and his carriage somewhat damaged, the city of Saco will be called upon to defend itself in two suits, which will probably be tried at the January term of the supreme court. James O Bradbury, who has been engaged by these men as counsel, has served notice on the city that Mr Haines will bring suit for $3 000, while Mr Coburn asks for $25, or enough to repair his carriage. Mr. Haines leg was broken and he will not be able to appear in court until January. The accident occurred on the Ferry road, near the Goodwin place. The electric light company was putting up a light near, and as the work was not completed a coil of wire was left by the roadside. Mr. Coburn was driving by one evening when his horse became frightened at the wire and collided with Mr. Haines, who was passing, throwing the latter from his carriage and breaking his leg. Whether or not the city is responsible for the wire left in the gutter by the electric light company will be a question for the courts to decide.

Some persons have been stealing flowers from Greenwood cemetery in Biddeford, and if the culprits are caught they will be dealt with according to law. This mean business is nothing new, and complaints have been made to the police. A lady carried up a handsome bouquet of choice flowers in the morning, which she laid on the grave. Upon going out to the cemetery in the afternoon, she found them gone and other graves were stripped. One of the neighbors saw a party come out of the cemetery with a huge bouquet and noticed them going down the railroad track as far as Main street. They are known to live in that neighborhood and it is reported to the police that they sell the flowers.

A heavy blast at the rock crusher at Ellsworth Friday sent a rock weighing forty pounds a distance of 500 yards across the river, where it crashed through a window of George Flint's house carrying away glass and sash. Fortunately no one was injured. The city repaired damages and the man in charge of the blasting was cautioned to be more careful. Blasts have been somewhat lighter since Friday.

Sunday evening a horse driven by George Ingraham Jr became unmanageable on Pleasant street, Houlton owing to ... giving away of some portion of the harness and when near Mr Obed Foss residence Mr Ingraham and the lady who was in the carriage with him were thrown out and badly shaken up, the lady being quite severely injured. She was carried into Mr Foss' house and later taken home in a team. The horse caused considerable damage to Mr Foss grounds ruining a valuable tree and cutting up a portion of the lawn.

The wind in Dover Wednesday of last week was very severe but evidently not as heavy as in some parts of the State. The barn being erected by Thomas Daggett was blown off the foundation and considerably damaged. Mr Brawn of Dexter was sent for and is getting it back in place so that the shingling can be completed. This has been quite a misfortune for Mr Daggett as he needed the barn to store his hay. The gale trimmed off a great many rotten limbs and blew down a large maple in front of B J. Batchelor's residence and probably did other like damage which has not come to our notice.

A very pleasant affair was the moonlight excursion from Dover and Foxcroft to Kineo Saturday night under the auspices of Taylor's band. The excursionists left at 5 0 by a special train under the charge of Conductor James Lider, embarking from Greenville on the fine steamer Katahdin, Capt C J Robinson which was fresh from the hands of the painters. Taylor's band furnished a high grade of music which was greatly appreciated by those present. The moon was elegant for the homeward journey. As they were going into Kineo they met another excursion on the steamer Louisa which sent up fireworks. All who went had a most delightful time.

Piscataquis Observer: We recently published the instance of the man who had a little girl arrested for innocently taking a few cherries but who did not gain anything as the jury put the costs on him. This was something like a man who lived in this county years ago. He was well off possessing a large orchard, but very stingy. A widow lived near him who was very poor and had a large family of small children. One day one of the girls in passing through the orchard filled a small hand bag with the apples that covered the ground. The owner saw her do it and compelled her to leave them, but, like the first man mentioned, did not gain anything by his course for as a punishment for his meanness the boys in the neighborhood relieved him of some twenty five bushels of apples soon after.

The Foxcroft Camp Meeting Association is sparing no pains or expense to render the season this year one of great interest and enjoyment. The old chapel is being completely remodeled and fitted up to accommodate those desiring rooms. The grounds were never in better condition and never presented a more inviting appearance. The camp meeting will begin Monday evening Aug 9, and continue until Aug 16. Wednesday the addresses will be given by Rev W N Brodbeck D D, of Boston, and other eminent speakers. A large number of preachers will be present all the week, and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon Rev R L Greene, D. D., of Boston, who last year completely captured the great audience on Sunday, will preach. The music will be in charge of Mr. Andrew S Farrar, of Dexter, who is already busy training his orchestra. Excursions will run Wednesday and Saturday from all points on the B. & A. and M. C. railroad at Half rates will be given all the week.

MILK PRODUCTION

Will be the Subject of the Next Board Bulletin—Questions, Etc

The next board bulletin will be principally devoted to milk production. It is an interesting subject and is of great importance to Maine farmers. The bulletin will embrace some such ideas as the following:

Best winter and summer feeds for dairy cows, best and most economical grain rations, best foods to purchase and to raise, best varieties of grasses for hay or pasturage, best soiling crops; experience in feeding ensilage or any other special feeds, best methods of disposing of the product, best method of creaming milk, including experience with farm separators, methods to adopt to reduce the loss in creaming to a minimum, your choice of breeds of cows, and whether or not you would advise the keeping of thoroughbreds, best season for cows to drop their calves, with some thought upon the general care of heifer calves during the first year, together with any other ideas which may occur to you.

The following questions will also be asked: Condition of fruit, of grain, and hoed crops, proportion of the hay that has been harvested, are potato beetles as plenty as usual, have any insecticides been used and if so, what, and with what results, are there any indications of rust on potatoes, is any Bordeaux mixture being used?

State Grange Meeting

The following letter has been received by State Master Wiggin, regarding the next session of the State Grange:

Augusta Me., July 20 1897.

Hon Edward Wiggin, Master Maine State Grange:

Dear Sir and Brother:

In behalf of the Capital Grange, I am authorized to invite the Maine State Grange to meet in Augusta December 28—31, 1897.

Our hotels and boarding houses will make the same rates as last year and His Honor Mayor Choate, in behalf of the city government again tenders the Patrons of Maine the free use of City Hall.

I assure you and through you the brothers and sisters of the State, of the desire of Capital Grange and Kennebec Pomona, to make their stay pleasant in the Capital City and trust the invitation may be accepted.

Yours for the good of the order,
G M Twitchell,
Chairman on the part of Capital Grange.

The State master says that Bangor is the only other city that has formally made application for the meeting. Skowhegan wanted it in 1896 and is in a fair way to make another application for '98. It is understood.

The matter will come up before a meeting of the executive committee in Augusta.

A recent number of the Somerville Journal gives a graphic account of an immense enterprise recently entered upon to add to the water supply of Boston and vicinity. An enormous dam is to be built across the Nashua river at Boylston near Worcester and several square miles of territory including a large part of the village of Boylston converted into a lake after the cottons mills, dwelling houses, woolen mills and other buildings are removed and the surface soil hauled off to the depth of some feet so as to get down to the gravel and thus prevent injurious vegetable and other growth. From the reservoir thus constructed water is to be piped as stated above. It is interesting to know that the engineer in charge of this vast enterprise costing many millions of dollars is Mr Stearns a Maine man born and educated in Calais.

FIREMEN'S WATCHFULNESS

Habits of Vigilance That Prevent a Comrade's Danger From Being Overlooked

After two or three ... on an unconscious fireman ... burning building ... curious ... who ... inside the fire lines asked:

How do they happen to know in all this confusion that some men supposed to be fighting fire in the cellar have been overcome by smoke and are lying down there unconscious and how too will they know that ... do they know it ... men in the cellar in a similar predicament?

Under the circumstances of the question was perfectly natural. It was a dark night and the fact that the electric lights for a block out and ... used constantly instead of giving a steady light did not tend to prove ... the confusion around the burning building. Firemen were hurrying every which way. Policemen were beating back the crowd which was struggling to get near enough to the engine house to see the prostrate firemen within. Ambulances and fire engines blocked the street and firemen were clambering over the roofs of adjoining buildings, yelling hoarsely at one another and sending plenty of water into the fire.

Naturally in all this confusion it was a matter of wonder to one not familiar with the ways of firemen how in the world they could tell whether or not any of their comrades was in danger. The cellar of the building was full of thick black smoke which no man could live in even for a short time and besides that the temperature was down to zero for the fire was in a cold storage warehouse and the freezing rooms were in the cellar.

There is a system in the fire department by which the men keep track of one another. The rule is for the men of each company to look out for the members of their company. This makes it comparatively easy for them to keep track of one another for there are rarely more than a dozen men in a company, and each man in it knows about where his comrades are working at a fire.

The custom among the men is to keep constantly inquiring for one another. If Jones hasn't been seen by Smith for some time he immediately asks the first man of his company that he comes across where Smith is. If the man can't tell, the inquiries go on, and so a man can't be missing for very long without his comrades knowing it. Then it is an easy matter to trace Smith to the last task he was ordered to do and as a rule he is hauled safely out of danger. From constant usage this system has become almost perfect and the cool courage that it has developed has made the department one of the finest in the world. The men will risk everything and go against the most tremendous odds to save a comrade.—New York Sun.

A Wheelman's Device

Ingenious wheelmen of Nice have put an end to the tribute of lives which a hill near that city has been exacting from them. At the bottom of this declivity there is a sharp turn then a bridge with a low parapet and just beyond a terrible amount of nothing at all except scenery. Long ago the French Touring club put a sign advising caution in a conspicuous place at the top of the descent but this did not prove sufficient to overcome the fatal attraction of the abyss and wheelmen continued to precipitate themselves into the view—which by the way was private property—with a rapidity that threatened in time seriously to diminish the club's annual receipts from dues.

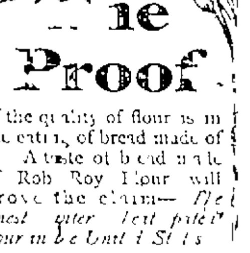

After long study of the problem, financial, esthetic and others, which the case involved it was decided to span the pond just beyond the parapet a strong net neatly woven of steel wires. The very day after it was put in place a bicyclist came coasting wildly down the hill struck the stone wall left his wheel—it wasn't worth taking any farther—and took a graceful header into the net. For the first time it wasn't necessary for the newspapers of Nice to make their regular news from the bridge of Ramingue, to say anything about "a plunge into eternity." Since then the net has saved an average of four lives a week, and so well known have its powers become that picnic parties from the city which once avoided the bridge as a place of tragical associations, now resort there daily to watch, from the cool shade of the nearby trees, the amusing postures assumed by the wheelmen and wheelwomen when they strike the clastic wires. According to recent information from that region the spectacle is well worth seeing.—New York Times.

WRONG AND RIGHT EATING.

ONE MAKES US WEAK; THE OTHER MAKES US STRONG.

Wrong eating makes us weak, because it doesn't nourish us. It poisons us, because it sets up poisonous fermentation in our stomach and the poisons go into our blood.

Wrong eating is eating indigestible food, or eating more than our stomach is able to digest.

Right eating is eating digestible food, food that the stomach is able to digest, food that will nourish you when it is digested.

Right eating strengthens and invigorates the body, gives endurance, increases weight and restores health.

Wrong eating can be made right by taking the Shaker Digestive Cordial. This preparation, made by the Shakers from simple herbs, roots and wine, is delicious, refreshing, and strengthening to the body. It is a powerful aid to digestion.

It does not act by strongly stimulating the stomach, but with its own digestive ferments acts on the food in the stomach, and reduces, instead of increasing, the work which the stomach has to do.

This is why it increases your strength, why it will cure you of all the bad effects of indigestion and of insufficient nourishment, and purifies your system of all dangerous indigestive poisons, when nothing else has been found to relieve you.

At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

On account of the several unscrupulous placards which have been placed upon the building of St. Mary's Parochial School and the threats of incendiarism by applying the torch, all of which tend to anarchy, riot and perhaps bloodshed; now I, Flavius O. A meeting of the trustees of the East Maine Conference Seminary of Bucksport was held Thursday afternoon in the vestry of Grace Methodist church. The principal business before the board was action in the choice of a new president for the institution to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of President Chase. It was voted to affirm the action of the committee in the appointment of W. A. Hutchinson, as president. Prof. Hutchinson has been president of the Pennington Seminary, New Jersey. The new president will assume charge of the Bucksport Seminary affairs the first of August. The fall term will commence Monday, August 30.

A Maine man tells a story of Campmeeting John Allen, who will be well remembered here. He stood on the street one day during a State Fair week and a ragged little street Arab came up and asked "Shine, sir?" Rev. Mr. Allen looked at his boots and then at the boy's bare and dirty feet and said: "I'll give you a quarter to go and shine your own feet." "All right, sir," said the boy, and immediately applied his brush to his feet. "Here, sonny, that is not what I mean. You go over to the river and wash your feet." In a few minutes the boy came back with his feet cleaner by far than they had ever been in the whole summer, and the venerable camp-meeting saint gave him his quarter and walked off, smiling. "The world is cleaner than it was," he murmured.

Mr. Leonard S. Cleave, of Bar Harbor, who had lived 74 years without consulting a physician, was thrown from his wagon against a post this week and got up with one rib broken and several bruises. But as the post saved him from going down several feet on to a pile of rocks he is not complaining.

In the window of Mountaine's drug store on Main street may be seen the handsome prizes which will go to the winners in the various events at Lake Maranacook upon the occasion of the A. O. H. excursion next Wednesday. Great interest is being taken in the event and a big crowd will surely go on the attractive excursion.

Mosher, the trick bicycle rider, of Bar Harbor, and Smith, both of whom raced at Maplewood on Wednesday, have been matched for a twenty-five mile race for a purse. The date has not yet been settled, but probably will be to-day. It is possible that it will be put on in connection with the horse races here today, or if postponed today, on the first pleasant day. Both are fast riders.

In the Probate Court on Thursday there was heard a case for $735.24 in which are involved some of the business transactions of Elias J. While coasting he collided with a team, and although he received a scalp wound and several contusions, he appeared to be as well as ever in a few days. A little later his eyesight began to trouble him and he was taken to the Portland infirmary for treatment. Later his brain began to show signs of being affected and developed to the serious state which ended in his death. His age was 16.

One thing that this city needs, says a well known physician, is a fumigation house and bake oven, or some place where unwholesome things can be subjected to heat enough to kill all germs. In cities where these bake ovens are used the things are baked in a temperature of 230 degrees Fahrenheit for three hours. When the city can afford it and the health department has larger scope, such an oven should be erected. The process which includes hot dry air, hot steam and a drying process by means of rapid exhaustion of the hot air will destroy any germs that may have remained in the fabrics, and articles which have been subjected to the treatment will not communicate disease.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McCurdy, of Springfield, Mass., are on their way on bicycles to Princeton, his old home, in Washington county, to visit. Dr. McCurdy was formerly of the Bangor Y. M. C. A., and is now one of the directors and professor of physiology of the Springfield Training School. Dr. McCurdy is an excellent example of what the Y. M. C. A. does for young men. He came to Bangor in search of employment, which was furnished him through the Y. M. C. A., with which he became connected. Through the advice of General Secretary R. A. Jordan he decided to fit himself to become a Y. M. C. A. physical director and with that end in view took the regular course at one of New York's best medical colleges. He then became physical director of the 23d street Y. M. C. A. of New York city and is now professor of physiology and a director of the Springfield, Mass., Training School. He has written a great deal on medical and physical culture subjects for magazines and papers and is known all over the United States.

Feathers of Song Birds.

The new Massachusetts law which makes it a finable offense to wear hats decorated with the feathers of song birds, leads the Kennebec Journal to remark that it might not be uninteresting were our present Maine law tested along this line. One chapter of the Maine law, it will be remembered, reads:

"Whoever kills or has in his possession, except alive, any birds, commonly known as larks, robins, swallows, sparrows or orioles, or other insectivorous birds, crows and hawks excepted, forfeits not less than one dollar nor more than five dollars for each such bird killed and the possession by any such person of such dead bird is prima facie evidence that he killed such bird."

RACES TO-DAY.

A Postponement Necessary Thursday Owing to Rain—The 2.25 and 2.37 Classes To-day.

On account of rain and wet track the races to have occurred on Thursday afternoon at Maplewood park under the auspices of the Bangor Trotting Association, were postponed to today. The races will be called at 1.30 o'clock, and great sport is promised. The races on Wednesday afternoon were exciting and more may be expected today if it is pleasant.

This afternoon there will be two classes, the 2.25 and 2.37, both trot and pace, purse $120 for each. Each class is well filled. In the 2.25 class are Lincoln G., Westbrook, George H., Arthur B., Haroldson, Orono Boy, Roy, Mechanic, Gipsey Boy and Fearnaught. In the 2.37 class are Nickle Whist, Fiessie S., Troublesome, Donald Wilkes, Charlie Reeves, Sallie Wilkes, Hopeful, Orlo and Bud Wilkes.

There will be professional and amateur bicycle races and the same men who rode in the races on Wednesday will appear in the two events.

If these races are successful others will be held later in the season by the Bangor Trotting Association. The attendance will doubtless be large as some fine races may be expected. The Maine Central excursion rates from Waterville and places east are extended over to-day.

If the weather is not favorable today the races will be postponed to the first pleasant day.

Base Ball Notes.

Hartford won a game on one hit Monday from Norfolk. The hit was a double by Roach, formerly of the Bangors, that player scoring on Kelly's muff of an easy fly ball.

Our old friend, Willie Maine, made four hits Tuesday, four times at bat.

No club has shown the pulling-out abilities of the Brocktons after a big lead has been secured against them.

Manager J. J. Piggott, formerly of Bangor, is to try his luck in Woonsocket. It is said that Woonsocket is ripe for New England league ball, and would like a franchise in another season.

Pat Powers is giving a trial to Charlie Brady, well known in New England league circles as a player and umpire. Brady umpired at Springfield on Tuesday, and did very well.

Catcher Rollins, of Brockton, has been released to reduce expenses. Shea will do all the catching for the remainder of the season, and if he gets hurt Capt. Kreig will catch the game out and some one else be secured.

Tim Hurst, the sturdy little Irishman who umpires ball and scraps with the players, isn't afraid of any of them and doesn't care what he says to them or they to him, says the Chicago News. Tim had occasion to call Jake Stenzel out on a long slide one day not long ago. Stenzel was furious. He came rushing in from the diamond. "You little Irish baboon," he shouted, "what am I out for?" Tim never looked at him. "I called yez out," said he, "ye big yellow monkey, because I thought ye was out, and, begobs, I don't care whether yez were out or not; I called yez out and it's out ye are, and out av the game, too, if ye ain't careful!"

Ed Deady, now with Indianapolis, had a batting percentage of .394 in 16 games.

Boston Herald: It is all nonsense to assert that Klobedanz is not doing his level best to win his games. It is utterly ridiculous to suppose that he should do anything but his level best all the time. He has the promise of a handsome present at the close of the season if he acquits himself creditably. There is not the remotest reason for his being disgruntled, and if he were he would be the sufferer thereby.

Jennings' home run in Chicago is said to be his first in three years. It won a game too.

Boston is the only club that has succeeded in giving Cincinnati an argument on its own grounds.

The physician of Capt. Robinson, of the Baltimores, says he should be able to play when the club gets home, July 27.

Springfield has signed Pitcher Harry Dolan, released by Philadelphia; and released Pitcher McGinnis, formerly of Toronto.

More Excursions.

Four more day excursions are to be given down river on the steamer Sedgwick. The first will be on next Tuesday, the 27th, and will be a deep sea trip to Isle au Haut and Saddleback. A stop of two hours will be made at Isle au Haut on the return. The steamer will leave Bangor at 7.30 a. m.

The second excursion will be on Wednesday, the 28th, to Camden and Thomaston, with a visit to the State Prison. The steamer will leave Bangor at 7.30 a. m. and returning will leave Camden at 5 p. m.

The third excursion will be on Thursday, the 29th, to Buck's Harbor, by West Bangor Chapel Society and their friends. The steamer will leave Bangor at 7.30 a. m.

The fourth excursion will be on Friday, July 30th, to Fort Point and Northport. The steamer will leave Bangor at 7.30 a. m., touching at Hampden, Winterport and Bucksport. Returning it will leave Northport at 4 p. m. and Fort Point at 5. Rates of fare, etc., will be found in our advertising columns.

There will be a searchlight excursion next Monday evening on the steamer Sedgwick which will leave Bangor at 7.30 p. m. for a sail down Penobscot river. No landing will be made and the steamer will return at 11.30. Music will be furnished by Wasgatt's orchestra. The excursion was arranged by the managers of the Bar Harbor line. Good order will be maintained and the trip will be a pleasant and interesting one. Other particulars are given in our advertising columns.

Quick Returns.

In yesterday morning's WHIG Mr. P. H. Vose advertised vases of all kinds. A reader of THE WHIG saw it and was at the store and made a purchase before half past eight. A few days ago "Brilliant," for cleaning brass, was advertised. By return mail from Cherryfield came an order for several cans. These are only two of numerous examples of quick returns from judicious advertising such as is furnished in the columns of THE WHIG.

Municipal Court.

John Welch was tried in the Municipal Court on Thursday morning for threatening violence upon Mrs. Catherine Malloy. The Judge suspended sentence pending an examination of the future conduct of the respondent.

Ada Mitchell, of Bangor, aged thirteen years, was tried on the charge of the theft of plants from the burial lot at Mt. Hope belonging to Mr. Elton W. Ware, of this city. Sentence was suspended on payment of costs.

An Enjoyable Outing.

The neighbors and friends of Hooper Chase, Esq., were right royally entertained at his farm in Brewer on Thursday. At 1 p. m. a dinner was served in the annex adjoining his great barn, where two large tables were spread with every dainty. Misses Wite and Grindle, caterers, prepared everything in a most tempting manner.

Mr. Chase, who is in his 89th year, planned and executed the affair in his usual hospitable manner, anxious that everyone should enjoy himself.

Before leaving the spacious barn filled with new mown hay, where some of the guests persisted in lounging about the lofts with the same ease and freedom of more youthful days, all with one accord declared Mr. Chase to be the prince of entertainers.

Much sympathy was felt for two who were unable to be present.

BUSINESS PROHIBITED.

Maine Insurance Commissioner Refuses to License Several Companies.

Augusta, Me., July 22. The Guarantors' Liability Indemnity Company, of Philadelphia, Pa., has been prohibited from doing business in Maine for the present, as it has made no application for a renewal of its license, which expired June 30, 1897.

The insurance commissioner of Maine, Hon. S. W. Carr, has declined to renew the licenses of the Massachusetts Benefit Association and the Mercantile Mutual Accident Association, both of Boston; also the Odd Fellows' Accident Company of Boston, the Fraternal Accident Association of Westfield, and the Red Men's Fraternal Accident Association of Westfield, the three latter on the ground that they are fraternal organizations and, as they are not transacting business in compliance with the law of 1897 regulating the business of fraternal orders, these companies have been ordered to discontinue business in the state, and the insurance commissioner has declined to renew the licenses of their agents.

Workmen Refused Reduction.

Portland, Me., July 22. C. A. Allen & Co., shoe manufacturers, were to have resumed work in their bottoming and finishing departments today but the employes refused to accept a 20 per cent. reduction.

WISE MEN KNOW

It is folly to build upon a poor foundation, either in architecture or in health. A foundation of sand is insecure, and to deaden symptoms by narcotics or nerve compounds is equally dangerous and deceptive. The true way to build up health is to make your blood pure, rich and nourishing by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

The summer residents at Lake Cobbosseecontee say that last week's wind brought one blessing in that it destroyed many mosquitoes—so many, in fact, that they are now little troubled with the miserable things, while before they found them more numerous than ever on account of the wet weather preceding. It is, indeed, an ill wind, etc. Mosquitoes are interesting in their experiences, so subject they are to some extent to wind and smoke. If they are in a country where the wind is likely to blow a greater part of the time they get used to it. Smoke, however, seems to drive them to the limit, as was the case on an island, where there was a great fire in the grass and brush.

MANY PEOPLE FAINTED.

Great Crush to View the Parade at Chicago—Mrs. Logan Received—President's Regrets.

Chicago, July 22. President McKinley sent a message expressing profound regret that he could not be present to do honor to the memory of Gen. Logan today.

Shortly after 3 p. m. Mrs. Logan and her party left the Auditorium Annex for the Coliseum. An immense throng had gathered to witness the fireworks, which were on a par with the lavish displays shown during the World's Fair.

At the conclusion of the spectacle the crowd turned to the Coliseum where for over an hour Mrs. Logan, Secretary and Mrs. Alger and Sculptor St. Gaudens received thousands. Quite a number of people fainted in the crush on the streets while viewing the parade.

Decision on Bridge Crossing.

Augusta, July 22. The Maine board of railroad commissioners has made a decision in regard to the Veranda street bridge over the Grand Trunk railroad in Deering that the Portland and Yarmouth railroad may cross the bridge until otherwise ordered.

This company is to strengthen the bridge sufficiently to safely carry its loads, laying tracks on one side of the bridge so as to leave the other side suitable for general travel.

Moses Crosby, a brakeman of the Skowhegan and Portland freight, met with an odd accident Tuesday, which will keep him from work for several days. He was going on the train and while crossing a car loaded with granite a block slipped and fell on Mr. Crosby's foot, crushing it badly.

George K. Cassett, who graduated from Colby in the class of '97, has secured a fine position to teach in the University School for Boys at Baltimore, Md. The school is one of the fitting schools for Johns Hopkins University and it is a credit to Mr. Bassett's ability to be selected from the large number of applicants for the position.

An orange which came from the stock of the wholesale fruit house of Winchester & Rose, of Portland, was found upon examination to partake of the character of the shield in the fable of the knights, where one side was gold and the other silver. Certain marks on the peel led to an examination when it was found that exactly one-half of the pulp was yellow and the other half red.
